

Introduction to BBO

In these difficult times it is important to keep in contact with family and friends, and what better way of staying in touch than playing a friendly game of bridge online with them on BBO?

The challenge many of us face is our fear of the Internet and modern technology in general, but if you are prepared to make the effort you will find that it is much easier than you thought and the rewards are amazing.

There are excellent tutorials on many of our local websites as to how you should go about this, but now you are here we have listed some of our favourites below

Getting Started

BBO Players guide (document)

BBO Registering (video) click here

Members

Our tournaments are open to everyone but if you are a member of SABF , once you have decided on your BBO username please go to our database and enter it here (and remember to save!) as this will help the tournament director trace your sabf number and issue you with masterpoints you may have earned

Sabfonline click here

Basic Stuff

BBO has moved some of its database to a second server. How might this affect you?

BBO Players guide addendum (document)

And some easy techniques you should learn

Bidding and Alerting (Video) click here

Undos (Video) click here

Friends and Chatting (Video) click here

Advanced Stuff

Creating Team matches (Video) click here

And lots more (Videos) click here

Tournament Schedules

Schedules click here

